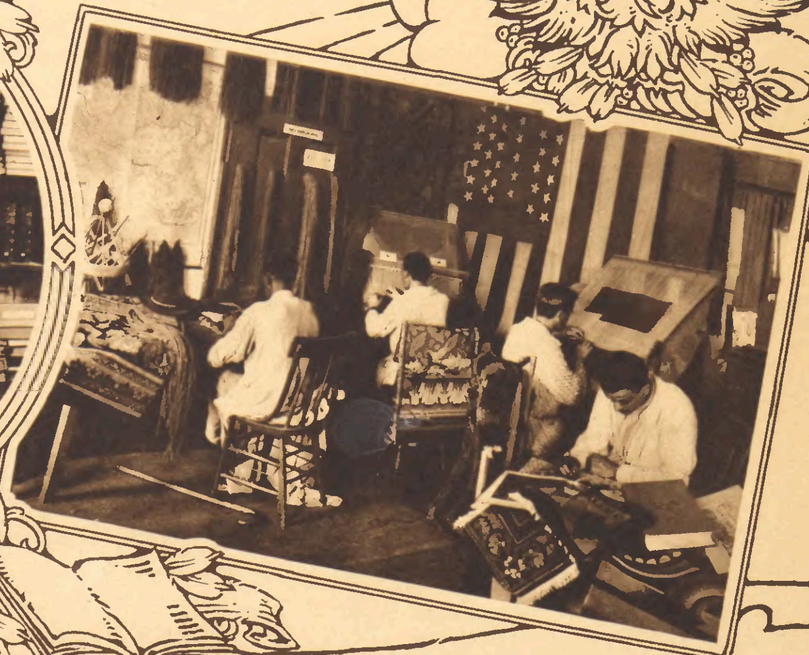
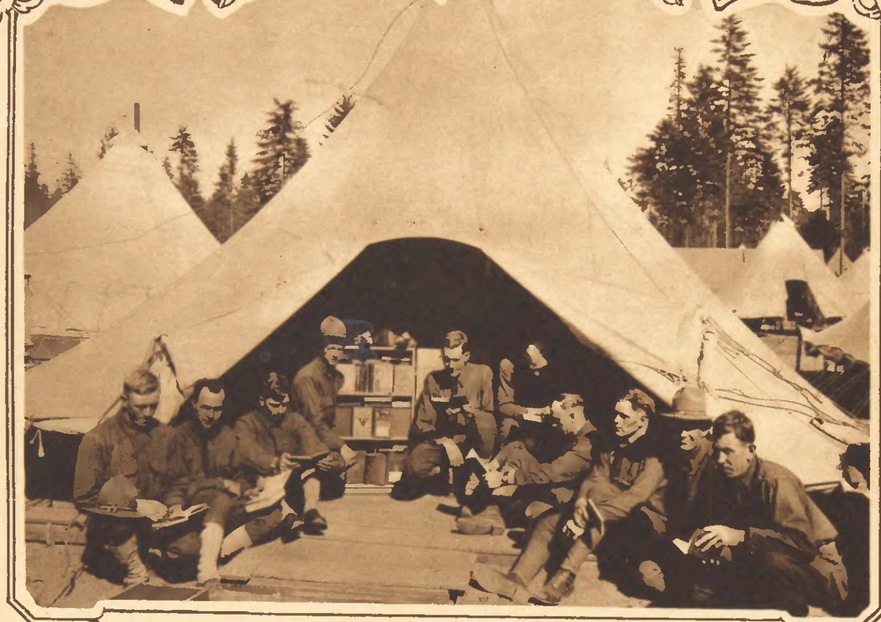
"Somewhere in France." Library War Service has sent more than one million books overseas. More going.

A "corner in books." Camp Librarian at Camp Funston, Kansas, sorting gifts for A. L. A. Library.



Books on rug-making are demanded in reconstruction hospitals. Walter Reed Hospital, using A. L. A. books.

"Just sign your name and take the books." Even the mess halls have libraries! This one is at Camp Sheridan, Alabama.



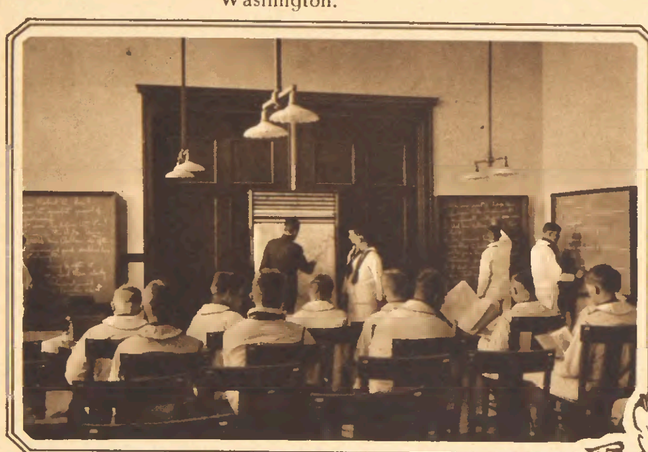
A "traveling tent Library" at Vancouver Barracks. Similar boxes are sent to all spruce camps in the Oregon woods.

Branch Libraries are placed in all Y. M. C. A. buildings by the American Library Association. Camp Custer, Michigan.

Attractive entrance to one of the many A. L. A. Camp Libraries. All have quick delivery cars. Camp Lewis, Washington.

The cool and comfortable A. L. A. Library at Kelly Aviation Field, Texas. Note the screened porch.

Even on cold winter days comfort and cheer are found in A. L. A. Libraries. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes.



The boys in the Navy must study. They make use of A. L. A. books to supplement their class work.

Troops find A. L. A. Libraries in all of the K. of C. buildings. Camp Kearny, California.

Entraining troops supplied with books for use on the way over. Supply Sergeants leaving Camp Beauregard.

Books are given out at desks like this one in the A. L. A. Camp Libraries. Camp Meade, Md.

Are the Camp Libraries used? Some of them have as many as 40,000 books. They supply the books the men need when they want them. Camp MacArthur, Texas.

Books are easily selected and borrowed. Interior view of the Central Camp Library at Camp Dodge, Iowa.

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

LIBRARY WAR SERVICE